The Real Issue:
We spend a trillion more than we take in.

Somehow in all of this talk about a fiscal cliff, the real issue gets lost: Our Federal Government will spend about $1.1 trillion more than we take in this year.

It is very hard to comprehend just how much $1.1 trillion dollars is. Here's the Big Picture:

2012
U.S Federal Tax Revenue	$2,438,181,953,554
Medicare/Medicaid	$745,818,953,554	30.6%
Social Security	$787,607,234,345	32.3%
Defense	$657,196,343,457	27.0%
Income Security	$360,778,456,345	14.8%
Net Interest on Debt	$260,263,456,789	10.7%
Federal Pensions	$212,241,233,567	8.7%
Other	$521,158,167,859	21.4%
Annual Federal Spending	$3,545,063,845,916	145.4%
	-$1,106,881,892,362	-45.4%
U.S National Debt	$16,302,880,418,800
Current Debt Ceiling	$16,394,567,894,180

Trillion: The New Billion.

It is hard to comprehend just how much $1.1 trillion dollars is.

If you were driving down the freeway while throwing a dollar bill out of your window every second, it would take you 35,000 years to deplete your stash.

Of course you could cut that down to 350 years if you were throwing C-Notes out of the window instead.

By contrast, it only takes our Federal Government one year to dole out our stash. Not to worry, the trillion that we go in the hole for does not even belong to us. We either borrow it or print it.

Wee! This is too much fun!

The bottom line is this: We need to reverse the course that we are on or we end up like Greece.

How are things going in Greece? We pay 1.6% to borrow our money, while the Greeks pay 16.3%.

The Greek people are not real happy...

Austerity is no fun. But, it would be a lot easier for us to begin to reverse our course now rather than later. Luckily the Greeks have the European Union to for a bailout. Whom would we turn to?

So what is the answer? Let's raise everybody's taxes by 10% across the board-(for illustration purposes only). That would put a small dent in the $1.1 trillion dollar annual deficit as would still come up $863 billion short per year. We would also still be adding significantly to our annual deficit every year.

And just because we raise rates, that does not even mean we could collect it.

We would have to raise everyone's taxes by 45% across the board in order to balance this current mess.

No worries, if you are paying $20,000 per year in taxes now, what is another $9,000? Is it not patriotic to pay taxes? The last time we thought taxes were too high, we started the American Revolution.

Okay, let's try a balanced approach instead. Let's throw in some token spending cuts to make it look good. Let's raise taxes by 10% across the board (we're talking everyone in America here) and cut spending by 10%.

Sorry, we are still $619 billion short. In a truly balanced approach, we would have to raise taxes by 22.5% and cut spending by 22.5%. Good luck with that!

Let's try this one more time. Let's keep taxes the same and cut spending by 45%. Where are the cuts going to come from? Should we take them from Medicare, Social Security, Federal Pensions, Defense, Unemployment benefits or Food Stamps?

I really don't think that this thing gets solved before the end of the year. The only solution that I have heard so far is raising taxes on millionaires and billionaires. It is estimated that by doing this, the Federal Government would raise about $40 billion per year.

This would lower our annual deficit from $1.1 trillion to $1.06 trillion-a veritable drop in the bucket.

It is obvious that our country needs some serious cuts in spending and some form of modest tax hikes to even begin to whittle away at this debt. If it does happen, our debt ceiling will continue to rise and rise and rise.

The GOP wants a promise of some serious spending cuts before they are willing to consider any kind of tax hikes. So far only a few, almost comical spending cuts have been offered by Harry Reid and friends. It's time to get serious.

The President needs to stay in Washington, order some takeout, lock the room, roll up his sleeves, and lead some serious negotiations until the job is done.

By far, the most popular way people use this App is as a Lie Detector while they are watching TV.

Recently, more than a dozen CEO's from some of America's largest companies visited the White House to talk about the debt and job creation.

Using the Best Stocks Now App, people all over the country were looking up the record of the companies offering the president their advice.

Results: Some were pretty good. Way better than the CEO's on the President's Job's Commission, anyway. Thank you Best Stocks Now App.

So where does this leave businesses and individual investors?
It's still One Stock At a Time.

For now, the fiscal cliff has all but shut down capital spending and any kind of planning by corporate America and most investors. Despite this, here is how markets fared for the week.

Every time that a rumor of deal arose, the market rallied.

Then House Majority leader Boehner would report that now progress had been made and the market would lag. Luckily the markets rallied more that sagged and we actually finished up for the week.

I still say that the best way to handle this tug-of-war is ONE STOCK AT A TIME. Let me give some examples.

One Stock at a Time: Toro. National Health Investors.

You would have a hard time convincing me to dig up my Toro (TTC) right now. It keeps sprinkling capital gains down on investors...

National Health Investors continues to pay a healthy dividend (4.8%) and hit new highs.

One Stock at a Time: Pittsburgh Glass and Paint. Visa.

The uptrend in Pittsburgh Glass & Paint is showing no cracks.

Visa hit another new high on Friday.

Regeneron and Companhia Brasileira.

Regeneron is eyeballing new highs again:

You can see the problem here. Hitting the sell button on an entire portfolio of stock still makes little sense for now. That is not to say that some stocks are showing signs of weakness, however. I sold my Companhia Brasileira (CBD) when it started to roll over on Friday.

From David, one of our App users:

MUST READ: Anyone reading this, I am not paid or asked to promote Mr. Bill's site.

I found him on the web as I was trying to learn the market and glad I did. No joke, on day back in August a stock hit the app as #1 but in a short time it was gone, so I was confussed and called Mr.Bills number late that night to see why.

He took time to called me back early the next day to explain why he removed the stock of his list. The point is he cares and will scan the picks daily and that means a lot to me. You will not go wrong over all with his picks.

I wish I could met you Mr.Bill to shake your hand.

Time to Short?

Here is how a chart of the S&P 500 looks right now:

As you can see, the one-year primary uptrend has still not been broken. Although we have a very tenuous situation in our country right now, the market is hanging in there. Don't forget that interest rates are at 100 year lows and the housing industry is on the rebound. Without that we would be in a world of hurt right now.

Here is what shorting the market looks like right now:

While you may get lucky and guess the top of the market, the trend is definitely not your friend right now.

It would be a huge gamble to short the market right now.

What happens if they announce a deal after this weekend? Having said that, I have my guard up constantly.

Apple Update:

Here is a weekly Apple Computer (AAPL) update:

Apple is now running into it 200 day and 50 day moving averages. That is a formidable barrier. Look for it to do some settling this coming week. It badly needs to build a solid base.

Here is this week's sector rankings vs. last week's sector rankings.

Bill Gunderson's Top 200 is a new feature in the newsletter.

I can tell you from experience that it is very powerful. The Top 200 is a reflection of the market and the economy.

These trends can remain in place for a long time. Sometimes bonds are at the top, sometimes cash is at the top, and there are even times when inverse rule the roost.

Study this list carefully each week.

401-K Section

Everyone has different choices in their 401-k's. The choices basically fall into broad categories:

Large Cap, Mid-Cap, Small-Cap, Govt. Bond, Corp. Bond, Inflation Protected Bond, International, Emerging Market, and maybe sectors like technology, n; resources, etc.

I have added a number of mutual funds to my Best Stocks Now database that are representative of the various categories of funds that are available in n 401k plans. I grade them on a daily basis. I only want to own funds that are ranked 850 or higher, overall.

Of the funds that I am tracking, here is my current basic recommendation.

Need Help with a Mortgage?

MORTGAGE RATES remain at all-time lows.

Craig Brock, our local mortgage expert and bond market commentator on Positively Wall Street is actually closing HARP-2 loans for people (while many b: are hopelessly backlogged).

Are you under water on your property? These new rules are helping folks who may not have otherwise qualified for a new loan at these historic low rates!

Talk to Craig! (855) 900-EASY"
