The Biggest Threat to the Market?

Not too long ago, economists were talking about just how the “fracking boom” was stoking the fire of the U.S. economy. That was then, and this is now. Now oil is under $50 per barrel and oil & gas exploration companies all across America are laying off workers.

What impact is this crash in oil prices having on our economy, and more importantly on earnings for the S&P 500 going forward?

On Friday, Exxon Mobil (XOM) said that it would be cutting its spending budget by $1.54 billion. That impacts a lot of jobs. Here is how the stock of Exxon is behaving.

The stock is off 22% from its high while oil prices have been cut in half. The stock has not found a bottom yet. This has impacted a lot of IRA's and 401-k's across America.

Chevron looks even worse. The stock continues to plunge. It is now down 31% from its high.

Chevron recently announced layoffs of 1,500 workers. Not only have investors felt a lot of pain in the oil sector, but it is the workers that are taking the brunt of it.

The U.S. economy has actually experience very tepid growth coming out of the 2009 recession. It is the worst recovery ever. What would it have been like without the "fracking boom."? Much worse...

On Thursday, GDP came in at a luke-warm 2.3% for the second quarter of 2015. According to the chief global strategist at J.P. Morgan, it would have been closer to 3% had it not been for the $29 billion decline in oil exploration and mining activity in the U.S.

The sell-off in oil is having a significant impact on our already sluggish economy. If it was Saudi Arabia's intention to drive the U.S. frackers out of business, it has worked pretty well. It does not help that Iran will also be coming back on line soon.

The sell-off in oil has hit investors and U.S. workers hard. Layoffs at three of the big oil & gas service companies are now over 60,000 and there are still more to come!

Now what impact it is having on our stock market?

Exxon just reported earnings that were 50% lower than this same quarter last year! Sales were down a whopping 33%. Exxon is a member of the S&P 500. So is Anadarko, Baker Hughes, Cooper Cameron, Chesapeake, Conoco, Chevron, Diamond Offshore, Devon, EOG, EQT, EnSCO, Halliburton, Hess, Kinder Morgan, Marathon, Murphy, Noble, National Oilwell, Occidental, Pioneer, QEP, Transocean, Range Resources, Schlumberger, Valero, Williams, Cimarex, and Apache-all energy companies.

An analyst at RBC capital markets predicts that for every 10% drop in oil, S&P 500 earnings fall by 1%. If oil is off about 50% from its high that would equate to about a 5% drop in S&P 500 earnings.

That works out to about $6 per share. I am currently using a multiple of 17X which translates to 100 S&P 500 points.

In simple terms, your portfolio could be about 5% higher were it not for the drop in oil prices.

Earnings from non-energy companies continue to beat for the most part. If oil prices were to start rebounding that could also start raising S&P 500 estimates even higher.

Here is how we finished the week in the market.

It was a fairly solid up week for the best asset class in the world-U.S. stocks. This is especially good news in the midst of earnings season. Things can't be going too badly with the reports that are rolling in. 125 companies from the S&P 500 reported last week.

Later on in the newsletter, I have new numbers for the S&P 500 in 2015, and more importantly-2016.

Emerging markets had another very soft week. It appears that growth in the global economy has slowed to a crawl right now. Money printing in Europe should eventually start to perk things up there, but Greece is still a problem.

China had another bad week. That market has turned into one big mess.

U.S. bonds had a fairly good week as fear about the global economy pushed money into safer harbors.

Commodities like oil and gold continue to fall. This is another very good indicator as to the weakness in the global economy.

Here is where we stand year to date:

It is hard to believe that the China FTSE 25 index is now negative for the year. Commodity rich Canada is now down 11.47% year to date. Brazil is also blessed with a lot of natural resources, but a corrupt government continues to rape the country.

More and more, it is looking like the U.S. stock market is about the only game in town.

Now for the current ranking of the 34 asset classes that I track on a daily basis. I am not an asset allocator. I believe in being invested in the best asset classes, not the worst ones. I would rather have my 50% recommended bond exposure in dividend paying stocks right now!

Gunderson Conservative Growth Model "C" Portfolio

This model is made up of mostly large-cap companies that I consider suitable for investors who have a conservative growth risk profile. Selections come from mostly the S&P 500 and the DJIA. Time horizon of at least 3-5 years would be appropriate. Investors need to be able to ride through swings up or down of at least 10-25%, however. Unforeseen world events are also always a risk! If appropriate, bonds or inverse funds could be included in this portfolio.

This portfolio is up 75.63% since its Jan. 1, 2010 inception. It is now up 3.70% YTD. This is net of an annual mgt. fee of 2% and all $3.50 trades. I sold

Gunderson Model "B" (Moderate Risk Portfolio)

This model pulls from the DJIA, Nasdaq, S&P Mid-cap, and a S&P Small-Cap stocks. It is more conservative than the Aggressive Growth Portfolio, and it is more aggressive than the Conservative Growth portfolio. Time horizon of at least 3-5 years would be appropriate. Investors need to be able to ride through swings up or down of at least 10-25%, however. This portfolio could contain bonds or inverse fund. Unforeseen world events are also always a risk!

This is by far, my biggest portfolio at Gunderson Capital Mgt. It is now up 8.71% YTD. I sold

Gunderson Model “D” Portfolio (Dividend & Growth)

This portfolio is for investors seeking Income along with the possibility of Growth. This is a good mix for retirees who are seeking a CD or Bond alternative-albeit with greater risk. This is my MOST CONSERVATIVE portfolio. Still, investors need to be able to handle 10-25% swing up or down. Again, unforeseen world events are always a risk. If appropriate, this portfolios could contain bonds or inverse funds. This portfolio currently has an average yield of 1.9%.

This portfolio is now up 32.63% since its August 5, 2011 inception. This portfolio is now up 0.09% YTD. This area of the market is starting to improve. I anticipate a good second half of the year. I sold

Gunderson Aggressive Growth Model “A” Portfolio

This is my most aggressive portfolio. It is designed for investors with long-term time horizons, seeking maximum growth. It is also my most VOLATILE portfolio. Investors need to be able to stomach as much as 10-30% swings from time to time in an aggressive style of investing. This portfolio goes anywhere in the world, wherever the action is. It can also be heavily weighted in certain sectors of the market. Unforeseen world events will always be a risk to markets.

This portfolio is up 62.08% since its Jan. 1, 2011 inception. It is now up 2.31% YTD. I cashed in some big chips this past week. I sold ANAC and RCPT for very large profits. I also sold

Gunderson Trading Model Portfolio (Model “T”)

This is my MOST AGGRESSIVE account. For the most part, these stocks are too small or too thinly traded for my managed accounts. This is not a day-trading account. I am looking to bag some big winners, while keeping a short leash on my positions. I am using 7-8% GTC trailing sell stops on most of these investments.

This portfolio is now up 7.39% since the beginning of the year. I sold

Gunderson Model “E” Portfolio (ETF’s)

This portfolio is for investors seeking growth. Investors should have at least a five year time horizon and be able to handle swings of 10-25%. BIG LOSSES COULD OCCUR IF EXTREME EVENTS WERE TO HIT THE WORLD SUDDENLY.

This portfolio is now up 24.05% since its Jan. 1, 2013 inception, and it is down -3.56% YTD. I made a brief foray into China and Europe that did not pan out. I

Everyone has different choices to them in their 401-ks. The choices basically fall into several broad categories however: Large Cap, Mid-Cap, Small-Cap, Govt. Bond, Corp. Bond, Inflation Protected Bond, International, Emerging Markets, and maybe sectors like technology, natural resources, etc.

I have added a number of mutual funds to my Best Stocks Now database that are representative of the various categories of funds that are available in most 401k plans. I grade them on a daily basis. If you have a wide selection of mutual funds in your plan, here is my current advice.
